VOL. XXVI, No. 2225 TELEPHONE 70-71 RICHMOND, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY MORNING JULY 4, 1936 TELEPHONE 70-71 PRICE,

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Today is the Glorious Fourth! Listen to the Eagle scream.

And in the midst of our patriotic fever, and what have you, let us pause just a few minutes to glance over some vital statistics.

It is estimated today that exactly 2,000, 759 watermelons will be eaten on picnics.

Exactly 3,947,892,638,753 ants will crawl into Maw's pickles and apple butter at the family picnic.

And exactly 2,978,345 drivers will attempt to squeeze thru the big parade on the "open" highway today. Two million may make it. The other 978,345 will have crumpled fenders, if not worse.

More than 27,879, 921 families will decide to go on a family outing.

Exactly two families will enjoy themselves while on the aforesaid outing.

The other twenty-seven million or more will arrive home tired, dirty, disgusted and angry.

Out of these families who go on their outing, at least ninety percent will choose a beautiful patch of poison ivy where luncheon will be served.

During the day, several million small boys will see if it hurts to hold a giant firecracker in their hands and let it explode.

And several thousand hospitals and doctors will have a busy day as a result of this experiment.

Firemen will enjoy the busiest day of the year—with enough fires to appease the appetite of the worst fire-bug.

Today's glorious Fourth—it's lucky it only comes once a year.

FLIERS WILL ARRIVE TODAY

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 3.—UP—After bucking strong head winds the last two hundred miles of their flight, Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions in the round the world flight of the Southern Cross landed here tonight at 8:30 p. m.

Two thousand spectators, greeted the pilots as the plane zoomed down upon the field.

Kingsford-Smith said the last two hundred miles of the flight were the worst, encountered since they took off from New York Wednesday morning to the Pacific coast to complete their jaunt around the world.

The Southern Cross passed over Cheyenne, Wyo., at 3:25 p. m. and made good time for three hundred miles. Kingsford-Smith said that it was slowed considerably by unfavorable weather during the remainder of the trip.

The fliers left Chicago early this morning. They expected to resume their flight to Oakland at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow, and expected to reach their destination about 4 p. m.

MOONEY CASE NOW BEFORE GOVERNOR

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—UP—After fourteen years of waiting behind prison walls, Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings, convicted of bombing the 1916 Preparedness Day parade in San Francisco, had their case before the governor of California, with action guaranteed within a few days.

A 30-page document containing the state supreme court's findings on Billings' appeal for pardon was received by Governor C. C. Young, who announced that his decision on the pardon matter might be made Saturday or Monday.

Governor Young previously had announced that he would be guided in his decision by the court's stand—favorable or unfavorable—on Billings' plea for freedom.

The plea of Billings and the findings of the supreme court may be made public tomorrow, if the copies can be printed in Los Angeles today and rushed to Sacramento in time for a simultaneous release in both cities, Governor Young said.

Billings' appeal for pardon went before the supreme court because he was a "two time loser," having served another term before he was convicted on the bombing count.

Controversy over the innocence or guilt of Mooney and Billings reached a high pitch in the country after the world war and efforts to free them have been carried on constantly by groups including prominent labor elements. The defendants maintained they were "railroaded" to prison by special interests.

Soon after Billings applied to the supreme court to hear his pardon appeal, Governor Young announced he would use the decision as a precedent in the Tom Mooney case.

Nine persons were killed and 40 injured by the bomb which exploded while a huge patriotic parade was winding up Market street in San Francisco.

AWARDS WILL BE MADE IN TEN DAYS

With the arrival in Richmond last night of William Bremer, engineer for Albert Kahn, Inc., architects for the Ford company, indications were that work on the plant, to be situated on the Richmond inner harbor would be commenced within the next 10 days or so.

While Bremer would make no official statement, he said the probability was that bids on the construction of the local plant and on the addition to be built on the Long Beach plant, would be made about July 10. The bids are now in the Detroit offices of the company.

The bids have already been opened, according to Bremer, but official awarding will not take place until about July 10.

Bremer will divide his time between the Richmond plant and the Long Beach addition, and will remain in this district until completion of the work.

Bremer has established his headquarters in the Hotel Casque, and it is anticipated that the crew of head engineers will also locate there. They will occupy nearly 20 rooms.

Work on the grading of the spur track to the new Ford factory site was started by Marshall and Higgins, local contractors on Monday, and is expected to be completed in about two weeks.

The tracks will leave the present inner harbor spur of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads, and will extend southward over Fourteenth street to the Ford site. It will then be extended to the factory property along the line of the building.

The gaze of the Odd Fellow warriors fell upon John Rosano who was standing on the sidelines and not in costume. He was marched up to home plate, despite the arguments given by the opposing Native Sons that it was against the rules of baseball for a team to yank a pinch hitter

ODD FELLOW BASEBALL SQUAD GOING STRONG THIS SEASON

The Richmond Odd Fellows have this year loomed large on the baseball diamonds of Richmond.

Their slugging has spelled defeat for practically every team in this locality, and several visitors from outside the county, while their fielding has enabled them to allow exceptionally few scores on the part of opposing aggregations. They have jumped to the top of the Richmond City Twilight baseball league, and have met success in Sunday afternoon competitions.

Therefore, statistics in connection with the athletic linkers are of interest to most baseball fans of Richmond.

The Odd Fellows have been victorious in 18 out of 21 games played this season.

The lodgemen have possessed a sensational pitching trio in John Babich, Carl Kamb and L. Orr. Babich has won seven games out of eight twirled by him. He has allowed 28 hits, averaging four hits per game, has allowed 14 runs, or less than two per game, and struck out 82 batters, a little better than 10 per game, and has walked 34 men, or an average of

WELTERS READY FOR BOUT TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—UP—Young Corbett, III, Fresno welterweight, was a 10 to 7 favorite tonight to defeat Champion Jack Thompson in their 10 round, non-titular fight at Ewing Field here Friday afternoon.

Both fighters were in the best of condition, however, and a hard contest was anticipated.

State Athletic Commissioner C. Trauna has made every effort to prevent the fight from ending in a foul fiasco, as did the Schmeling-Sharkey and Carnera - Godfrey fights recently.

Managers of both fighters today signed an agreement whereby there will be no decision awarded in the event of an unintentional foul.

Should one be made, the fighter injured will rest until able to continue, and should that be more than a few moments, a preliminary bout will be staged until the main event can continue.

If a fighter cannot continue at all, fans will be entitled to see the match re-fought free, at a future date.

An intentional foul will cause the perpetrator to forfeit his entire purse and will cause indefinite suspension by the boxing commission.

Corbett and Thompson both completed their training yesterday, a training, by the way, that both took very seriously.

Corbett is confident of victory, although he does not hold his opponent lightly.

"I whipped Fields when he was champion and I can't see how anyone can deny that I am the real welterweight champion if I whip Thompson," said Corbett today. "If I win Friday I will really have won the title twice."

The city accorded the young champion all the honors it showers upon distinguished visitors. Legion Junior Ball Squad To Play Bay Point

The first contest of a three-game series between the Richmond American Legion Junior baseball aggregation and the Bay Point Juniors will be played this morning at 10:30 o'clock at Walnut Creek. This will be the semi-finals for the county championship.

The series opening today will decide who will oppose the winner of the Brentwood-Antioch games for the Contra Costa American Legion Junior baseball title. Bay Point boasts one of the snappiest baseball squads in the county, and should prove hard competition for the Richmond boys. However, the locals have recently handed two defeats to the Crockett team, and are expected to be able to handle themselves capably at Walnut Creek today.

Lemon will start chucking for Richmond today, with either Novascome, Crocker or Santella receiving. The other members of the local team are: Scarcella, 1b; Putnam, ss; Humphrey, 2b; Moitoza, 3b; Collins, DeCourten, and Glover, outfielders.

FIREMEN PLAN PROTEST OF RULING

The baseball - playing Firemen of Richmond are not going to submit to what they consider unfair decisions by any umpire.

In pursuance of this policy, the local firefighters have decided to protest to the president of the Richmond City Twilight Baseball league a decision rendered recently by Johnny Cabral, league umpire, in a spirited contest fought between the Firemen and Native Sons.

The argument started when Grady, Korman, reached second base in the seventh inning with the score four to three in favor of the Native Sons. Grady was playing a little off second bag when Fink, catcher for the Native Sons, lammed the ball down to second baseman who tagged Grady out, according to the Native Sons and Johnny Cabral. But the indignant fire fighters thought differently, and a long, long argument ensued. Cabral became the center of an enraged group of rather excited baseball players, and at last became disgusted and stated that the Native Sons had both won the argument and the ball game.

The Firemen are still of the opinion that they had the best of the argument. So, they are now going to place the decision in the hands of the supreme authority of the league, the president, George Miner.

This is the first protest that has been made this season in the city league, and league fans are awaiting the outcome of this first argument with a great deal of interest.

Quakes Ruin Japan Resort

ITO, Shizuoka, Prefecture, Japan, July 3.—UP—This little fishing village once one of the most popular of the hot springs resorts of the Izu Peninsula has become literally the earthquake center of Japan.

More than 2500 earthquake shocks; many of them of considerable intensity, have been registered by the seismological observatory here since January 1. One hundred separate shocks were registered in 18 hours during a single day in the month of April.

It is only 100 miles from Tokyo and is noted for its warm climate and its healing hot springs. Until the terror of the "fishin," as Japanese call earthquakes, claimed it this year it was immensely popular as a week-end resort particularly in winter, when fashionable "yeddokō"—residents of Tokyo—flee the cold winds and variable temperature of the plain on which their city is situated.

A United Press correspondent who visited Ito found the village all but deserted by the usual holiday crowds. Many fashionable villas were empty and inn keepers complained they were being ruined by the widespread publicity being given their town by Tokyo newspapers.

Many houses, weakened by continual shaking, were propped with poles and fishermen, who comprise a majority of the villagers, said they frequently sleep in their boats. The earthquakes have been most severe in the evening and at night.

BODYGUARD OF FOSTER TRIES TO ESCAPE

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—UP—A bold escape attempt by George Davis, Chicago gangster and the bodyguard of Frank Foster, important figure in the Alfred Ling murder case, was frustrated late today after he had managed to gain the street from the city jail by a clever ruse.

Davis is being held for Detroit, Mich., authorities, who wired the Los Angeles police that they believed fingerprints revealed him as the man wanted there on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Police said Davis almost obtained his liberty by switching of straw hats and securing the bail bond slip of Frankie Fisher, another alleged gangster, who was to have been temporarily released to await trial on a vagrancy charge.

Three detectives sighted Davis as he, and two other ascertained gangsters who had secured bail, and several bail bondsmen were walking down a street outside of the jail.

One of the detectives made a flying tackle that would have done credit to a football player, and brought Davis to the sidewalk. The would-be fugitive was hustled back to jail and officers turned their attention to Fisher.

"I'm glad they got him," Fisher kept saying to anyone who would listen. He was trembling as he took his leave from jail on the bail agreement Davis had usurped.

No sooner had Fisher departed, however, than police were sent after him to arrest him on the charge of aiding and abetting the escape.

TERMINATION OF LEASE IS ASKED

OAKLAND, July 3.—The Oakland Port commission, contending that 2008 feet of water frontage on the western water front is now needed for proper development of the outer harbor, has advertised for termination of the Parr Terminal company's lease on the land.

According to an announcement by the port officials, the move is a legal step preliminary to cancellation of the Parr lease, within a year, as provided in the lease contract.

The lease provides that the Parr firm holds the land "subject to the requirements of public use" and port officials insist that the "requirements of public use" in the increase of shipping now demand public development of the land now held by Parr.

According to officials, money spent in developing the holdings has been refunded by the city in accordance with the terms of the lease.

The usual things

IT IS DIFFICULT to imagine the world today without some of the things that make our living in it so pleasant and comfortable. How naturally we lift the telephone receiver, step into an automobile, and look for the news of the world in the newspaper — every day of our lives.

Another of these usual, invaluable things, accepted as part of the routine of existence, is the guidance given by the advertisements in this newspaper in supplying our wants from day to day. We read them. They help us to save time and money. And our lives go on — more easily and more fully.

Every day the advertisements suggest ways in which we can get things we want with the greatest possible satisfaction to ourselves. They tell us of new conveniences and comforts of which we would not otherwise have known. They help us to get down-to-the-dollar satisfaction. They assure us of proved values.

Advertisements are among the necessities

THE "CUCKOOS" MAKES HIT AT CALIFORNIA

Proving that there is, after all, something new in motion pictures, "The Cuckoos," Radio Pictures' riotous extravaganza of nonsense, opened yesterday at the Fox California theater and gave local audiences the comedy treat of their lives.

Filled with mad waggery and delectable fun, "The Cuckoos" is a new type of screen musical, which seems to come about the closest to one hundred per cent popular appeal that any picture has ever achieved. "The Cuckoos" is not a revue; it is not a musical comedy. The film is based on a well developed plot and has a pleasing little romantic story running throughout.

But the comedy is of prime importance. The two mad wags, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, who are the stars, crown their way through the show, carrying everything with them. The picture is completely theirs—a delectable concoction of delightful nonsense with fun and side splitting new comedy gags. Never before has any screen production presented comedy throughout and succeeded in making every moment one of unadulterated glee.

"The Cuckoos" is a most lavish production. It is dressed with breath-taking settings, and costumes; the cast includes seven featured players in addition to Wheeler and Woolsey and hundreds of singers, dancers, musicians and extra players. A large portion is filmed in the most effective Technicolor yet to reach the screen. All in all, it is a gigantic fun show.

Ten melodious song hits give it a most impressive musical score, with every number destined to become a popular hit. Among the most noteworthy of the songs—composed by Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby—are "I Love You So Much," "All Alone Monday," "Dancing the Devil Away," "Wherever You Are," "Laugh Today and Cry Tomorrow" and "California Skies."

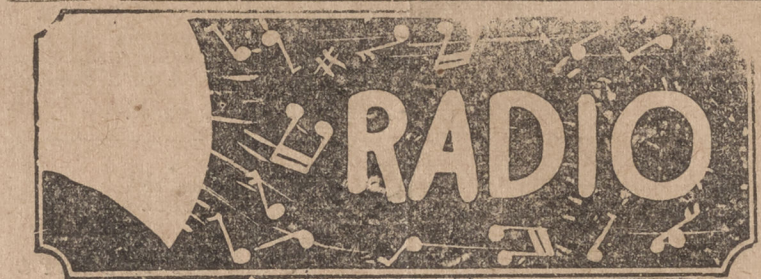

Winsome June Clyde and Hugh Trevor carry the romance in a most effective style. And that but starts to mention the supporting players in this "Cuckoos" cast. Dorothy Lee, petite comedienne, who made such an outstanding hit in "Rio Rita" with Wheeler and Woolsey, has the choicest bit of her film career in this show. Ivan Lebedeff, Mitchell Lewis, Margaret Padula and Jobyna Howland effectively round out the cast.

"The Cuckoos" is a lavish fun treat that should not be missed.

STORY ON NEWS LIFE, NOW FILM HIT

One of the most popular novels of the past year provides the material for the main feature at the Fox-California theater tomorrow. The novel is "Young Man of Manhattan" by Katherine Brush.

"Young Man of Manhattan" was first published as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post in the winter of 1929-30. It was produced later in book form by Farrar and Rinehart New York book publishers. The book became a best seller in hundreds of book stores all over the country.

"Young Man of Manhattan" is a realistic study, glamorously set forth, of the lives of two young newspaper folk, Ann and Toby. She is pretty, clever, ambitious and determined. He is good-looking, carefree, a great mixer, a right and left handed drinker and capable of writing good copy when motivated by the proper stimulus.

They meet at the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philadelphia in a pouring rain, he as an ace sports writer for his paper, she as a sports sister sent to get the woman's angle for a feature yarn in her paper. They fall in love and impetuously rush into marriage, each determined to pursue the calling of the press. Then jealousies are born. She makes good as a magazine feature writer; he slithers along, amid a night of convivial elbow-bending.

He is sent to "cover" the World's Series at St. Louis. There he meets Puff Randolph, giddy young society gadabout whose household god is gin. Then follow a number of "triangular" scenes against the background of football games, six-day bicycle races, spring training camps and other stamping grounds of the gentlemen of the Fourth Estate.

Ann, in trying to cure a cold, unwittingly drinks poisonous hooch left in the apartment by Toby. She is stricken blind. There are several tensely dramatic sequences, and then the roseate finale, one of the happiest happy endings yet conceived by novelist or film producer.

Toy City Proud of Fire Alarms

SNOW HILL, N. C., July 2.—UP—Snow Hill, the "toy city" of less than 1,000 inhabitants but with paved streets, waterworks, complete sewage system, splendid schools and light plant, now points with pride to its new fire alarm system. The alarm system consists of six boxes which is a sufficient number, according to officials. Snow Hill has no pump or shoe water pressure is sufficient for any ordinary blaze.

HUNTER BROS STILL GOING STRONG

CHICAGO, July 3.—UP—All the pesky publicity the Hunter brothers are getting threatened to ruin their endurance flight tonight, 22 long and nerve-racking days after it started.

Frazzled tempers turned the world's longest endurance flight to a comedy for the onlookers and near tragedy for John, Kenneth, Albert and Walter Hunter, serious-minded Sparta, Ill., coal miners, who had kept a second-hand Stinson-Detroit monoplane in the air 528 hours at dusk.

John and Kenneth, after more than three weeks of looking at each other in the cramped cabin of the plane, decided that what they saw wasn't pleasant. They hardly spoke to each other. Kenneth wanted to come down. John wanted to stay up.

And furthermore, said they in notes to brothers Albert and Walter, of the refueling ship, they felt like a couple of gold fish, as every move they made, every chew of fine-cut they took, everything they said, was chronicled faithfully in the public prints.

The newspapers were then taken up to them so they could read about themselves. The headlines were very unsatisfactory, explained John vehemently, in ungrammatical. Said he in a note to his brothers:

"Walt and Al:

"Read this to yourselves. Who in places put that in the papers about Ken being worried and whoever done it had little to do after him cracking his ship night to night trying to bring the record to Chicago. Then somebody put that line of slush in the papers.

"Can't I write a thing without you guys getting in the papers?"

"I only told that he was hard to wake up. And so am I. This caused plenty of trouble between me and him. He came near jumping out in a chute, and it won't take a lot to make me do the same."

"Now I want this corrected or this ship may land quick. We want this stuff stopped."

Then there was the matter of a sheriff on the ground waiting to serve them with a warrant, as soon as they landed.

The warrant involved the Hunter brothers in litigation over the profits of the flight, and brought Harry Perkins, their high pressure publicity man, a proposal that astounded dignified Judge Michael Feinberg.

"If you insist upon the appearance of John and Kenneth in court before July 8," Perkins told the judge in effect, "I suggest that you bring a jury in a transport plane and hold court in the air. We'll provide the plane, establish two-way radio communication with John and Kenneth and thus we can get the knotty question all untied without endangering the flight."

Judge Feinberg took the proposal under advisement without comment, other than intimating that as an aviator, he, the judge, knew more about handling a gavel on solid earth.

While all this and more, much more was happening on the ground, Kenneth and John were pushing their rapidly deteriorating plane for all it was worth. The motor was loose, getting looser, and the wings were shaky, getting shakier.

Three weeks of pounding thru

JUDGE

the air was having a disastrous effect on red hot steel in the engine. Its piston rings were so loose that the plane was using twice as much oil and gas as it did when the flight started on June 11.

Emergency calls for more fuel and particularly for more and heavier oil became increasingly frequent.

INLAND SEA
FOUND IN CHINA

PEIPING, July 3.—UP—Discovery of a huge inland sea in which rich fossil deposits abound was disclosed today by Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, noted American scientist and explorer.

Dr. Andrews returned to Peiping on a hurried visit to purchase supplies for the expedition into the Gobi desert which he is leading this summer. He said a storm hit the expedition in the shifting, treacherous desert sands of the Gobi and destroyed the major part of their supplies.

The discovery of the inland sea was regarded as highly significant by Dr. Andrews who believes the Gobi desert was the cradle of civilization—the true "Garden of Eden."

The fossil beds and the sea, or great lake, hitherto uncharted, may contain evidences of the earliest man, he said. It was to locate this sea or lake, surrounded entirely by sand dunes and defying detection until now, that the expedition started a few weeks ago for the desert.

The fossil beds, lie about 300 miles northeast of Kalgan, Dr. Andrews told the United Press. He said that paleontologists in the party were now making a careful study of the fossils on the spot and that important contributions to the knowledge of prehistoric man might result.

The huge sea was found after a 500-mile trek through the desert. The sand dunes made the going dangerous and difficult. Motor cars had to be abandoned and camels used in the caravan which, so far as is known, took white men to the shores of this hidden body of water for the first time.

The mysterious lake, surrounded by high bluffs, filled with fossil bones, first excited the interest of Dr. Andrews two years ago. He decided to investigate and sent a mongrel trained by Dr. Walter Granger, chief paleontologist of the expedition, into the sand to find it.

The mongrel reported his survey had been successful, and that the lake was there—and brought evidences of its rich fossil deposits. Dr. Andrews thereupon decided to trek for the lake, but was held up a year ago by political and other troubles in China, including an altercation with the Chinese authorities.

The fifth central Asiatic expedition started from Peiping a month ago, however, and despite hardships reached the lake. They need supplies, Dr. Andrews said, and he intends to start back across the dunes with new stocks within a week.

Tales That Tables Tell

WHEN planning the picnic luncheon or supper on the beach, of course you remember the zest that a pretty, well-packed basket adds to the occasion. . . . and make yours as attractive as possible. If fortunate enough to own picnic equipment as elaborate as that shown in the picture, it is easy enough to pack into it the sandwiches, old-fashioned fried chicken, fruit, a container of salad and other good things, while vacuum bottles stand by to receive iced coffee, freshly made before leaving the house. The trick, however, is to accomplish the same result with an ordinary suit box or a less artistic basket and such picnic tools as can be gathered at the neighborhood five-and-ten.

Standard equipment for picnic dinners large or small, pretentious or quite simple, include practically the same accessories. In point of neatness and color-scheme it matters little whether we have a porcelain-lined basket fitted with special glasses, china and silver, or make use of paper cups, plates and containers, picnic forks and spoons. In either case we shall need a roll of waxed paper to be used for wrapping sandwiches, meats, fruits and pickles, so that the flavor of one will not permeate the other, and the freshness of all will be preserved. Smart looking paper napkins and table cloths come in gay modern patterns so that the feast may be set against a background as colorful as that provided by the home table. Even such desserts as fruited gelatins and charlottes can go to the picnic in individual paper cartons and be served quite daintily.

And suppose one has no vacuum bottles in which to carry food coffee? Then it can be served hot, made over the beach or camp fire. The drip pot can go along with the basket and stand safely on one side, ready to receive the boiling water from a little camp kettle kept for this special purpose. The days of hard-boiled camp coffee and blackened pots are almost forgotten, since percolators and drip-pots, vacuum bottles and jugs have taught us that the perfect beverage—hot, cold, or both—can be had in the desert if need be.

Coming upon parties on the beach, or in the woods at mealtime, we have a way of judging them by the packing of their baskets, the manner in which the luncheon is spread out. And while it isn't possible to gauge the exact percentage of good time had by all, it is safe to surmise that the orderly, pretty picnic table brings more or less harmony in its train, just as certainly as the confusion at a sloshy table inspires spots and spankings. . . . when little folk are about.

To-Day's Good Manners

By Millicent James

LUNCING, dining, tearing around at hotel, restaurant, country club is the great indoor sport of our generation and it calls for a special code of behavior, even though it is none too strictly observed. If we are to judge by the sum of all that we hear and read in the papers,

The first and foremost of rules is, I should say: Be unobtrusive in all public places, and particularly in public dining rooms where it is so easy to attract attention to one's self. Speak quietly, conversationally at the table, for only those of your party to hear, and do avoid playing to the gallery, which is excessively bad taste, beside making you ridiculous. See and hear as much as you please, but without peering around. You should, to all outward appearances, be absorbed in your own party and what goes on only at your own table.

If you are invited to join a restaurant party, it is not only correct but advisable to ask your hostess what type of dress you shall wear, it is embarrassing, you know, to find one's self a solo in evening dress or vice versa.

If the dinner is a very large one it may be arranged for one large table or several small ones, but preferably the former. In that case the rules for dining at home hold. The hostess's place is at one end of the table, the second place of honor is at the left of host and hostess, respectively. And so on, the procedure continuing as if in a private home. The menu, of course, having been arranged in advance, the hostess the question of ordering is not involved.

Dining informally at a restaurant, say a man and a woman, the woman may enter the room first, but both wait for the waiter to show them to the table. He, the waiter, invariably seats the woman facing the dining room, and he pulls out her chair for her. If, by any chance, he does not, this service is performed by her escort, and if there are two women in the party, the waiter seats one of them, the escort the other.

The man orders, always. You, the woman, may suggest, but it is the man who gives the order to the waiter. If a large plate of meat or other food is placed in front of you when you already have a dinner plate, you serve yourself from the platter to your dinner plate and do likewise with the accompanying viands. Only in rare instances should the food be eaten directly from the side dishes, so called.

In the absence of a butter knife you use the dinner knife for spreading the butter on your bread or roll, but you do not place the dinner knife on your bread and butter plate, but on the side of your dinner plate. If there is no olive spoon or fork, take the olives, two at a time, in your fingers, and they belong then on the bread and butter plate, not on the dinner plate. So, too, the pits after the olives are eaten.

Contrary to the old order of things to be done and not to be done, you may use both knife and fork for your salad course and both spoon and fork for dessert. If needed, but you always, always keep your knife, fork and spoon turned toward your plate, never away from it, which is extremely awkward though frequently done. And, alas, for it is such seemingly trifling gaffes as this that, more than actual breaking of rules, stamp one ill-bred.

If you require anything of the waiter, another spoon, for instance, or to change an order—anything at all—make your want known to your escort and let him relay it to the waiter. Never call the waiter or give the order yourself. Never do anything for yourself that your escort is expected to do for you, else he and others who may notice, will assume that you are not accustomed to dining. Never open a door, never reach for anything, let George or James or Mr. Brown, who is with you, do it.

If any one stops at your table, an acquaintance, the man or men rise and remain standing, but you stay seated during whatever conversation may be carried on.

It is rather a delicate subject, but it is not, it really is not, good form to allow a man whom you know has an abundance, to order lavishly for you. You can easily, if you have any tact, assure him that you are not very hungry or that you had a late luncheon, or resort to any such ruse to save his pocketbook. On the other hand, it is not good form and it is unkind to allow him any hint that it is a ruse.

On leaving the restaurant the woman may go first if the man must open the door, but he should be quickly beside her and never leave her standing unescorted. You may not say a direct "Thank you" to a man for taking you to dinner, but neither should you ignore his courtesy. Call upon your feet again and make it plain to him that you have had an enjoyable time of it. Before that, however, you should show him all through the dinner by your manner that you are really appreciative. It is difficult sometimes, but even if you are bored to extinction, you owe him that much, and you are privileged not to accept another invitation from him.

There is perhaps more camaraderie, more comradeship about this matter of dining around than there used to be, but it is still good form to hold one's self a trifle reserved and correspondingly bad form not to do so.

The man orders, always. You, the woman, may suggest, but it is the man who gives the order to the waiter. If a large plate of meat or other food is placed in front of you when you already have a dinner plate, you serve yourself from the platter to your dinner plate and do likewise with the accompanying viands. The Stubborn Stamp

Modernizing the Home

By Alma Zaiss

AN ENSEMBLE DESIGNED BY DONALD DESKEY, USING MODERN DRAPEY MATERIALS THAT ARE ADAPTABLE TO MANY ROOMS.

PROBLEM NO. 1.

Dear Miss Zaiss:
I am just taking a new apartment, and if you were in my place would you go to the trouble of getting summer curtains for these next three months or get just the glass curtains now and wait till fall for drapes? I do not like heavy draperies in hot weather, but rather hate to get two sets of curtains so close together, as it makes double work and expense. There is one big double window and one of regular size.

Please tell me what you think best, and I would like your suggestions for suitable curtains for fall, too, if you please. Some of my things are modern, but the most are not, so would you advise a modernistic material? Have a plain dark brown carpet, a Lawson sofa and chair in green velvet, another chair with modernistic upholstery, a kind of mixed cloth in brown and tan. Also have a live-dine table and two little modern end tables with lamps. Later on we want to get some bookshelves or a desk. Would you advise a secretary for this room? I would be glad to have your answer soon, as I want to get settled before it gets too warm.

Correct Costumes for Modern and Old-Fashioned Windows

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

SUPPOSE we were to think of the miles and miles of fabric that would stretch out before us if each different pattern on the shelves of all the stores in the big city were unrolled for one great display. As different as the eyes and nose and mouth possessed by each individual of the human family, we should find each pattern in a different environment. . . . as susceptible to the proper background and furniture companions as different persons are to costumes and colors, friends and surroundings that fit their particular types.

PROBLEM NO. 2—DIAGRAM OF ARRANGEMENT

being bizarre, or overcolorful.

The illustration shows a window treatment that should work out charmingly for Mrs. T's room. And particular attention is called to the weight of the overcurtains, which are light enough to be both comfortable and pleasing for summer, yet substantial enough to be suitable throughout the year. The present tendency is quite away from heavy, stuffy materials and lined curtains that shut out the light and air. The newer treatments are not only simpler than those of other periods, but they are more sensible, follow more consistently their original purpose, which was merely to soften the outline of the window—not obliterate it; to soften the rays of light coming through; to suggest a nice privacy for those within the home without necessarily shutting them in.

No. . . . If Mrs. T. is wise she will neither content herself with plain glass curtains over the summer, nor will she make two sets of draperies, one for now and the other to use when winter comes. Instead she will select something as adaptable and as distinctive as the scheme outlined, save herself both labor and expense, and enjoy her windows every minute of the time.

Perhaps the color scheme for Mrs. T's room will not be as daring as that used in the room photographed. The walls are doubtless plain beige or cream, and a dark brown and green scheme is already established. But she may use a similar striped fabric in tones of brown and warm beige, or in shades of green that harmonize with her sofa. We would have the three tones—brown, green and beige—constitute the foundation scheme for the room, and bring in only small accents of additional color such as orange and perhaps a bit of purple in pottery or ash trays, book bindings, the coloring of a picture over the sofa, or in flowers to be used in a dark green glass vase.

If a desk is bought, a secretary would be convenient, but would add little to the personality of the room. We should prefer a modern cabinet desk fitted at the sides with odd shaped shelves to hold a few books or biblioids. (And if bookshelves are selected instead of the desk, they, too, should be modern.)

If the room is of medium size, these few pieces of furniture may very well prove satisfactory, since the well-chosen curtains will carry the decorative burden and give the scheme a full measure of distinction.

Draperies Should Accent the Individuality of Rooms

Oh, Go to Bed

"D AD, why do I yawn when you do?"

"I yawn because you bore me asking so many questions, and you yawn because you see me yawning."

"Why should I yawn just because you do?"

"Yawning is Nature's way of causing deep breathing, and nothing is more essential to life than breathing. So we yawn when we are tired to draw plenty of air deep into our lungs. When we see another person yawn we feel that we want to yawn, too."

"Why do I feel that I want to yawn?"

"Oh, go to bed."

Success With Cactus

By Karin Broberg

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

FOR some reason there has been recently quite a revival in the interest shown among plant lovers in the cactus. If you are one of those who have very little time to devote to plants, the cultivation of the cactus will no doubt give you real satisfaction, for unlike most house plants it does not resent irregularities in watering. They have no fine, shiny foliage to get broken or dried up, as do many popular plants. Another advantage is that they rarely require repotting. Cacti are such slow growers that they can be kept in the same receptacles for years. These plants rarely bloom, but when they do their flowers are usually very striking in appearance. In fact, some of their ruby and purple shades rival those of the most gorgeous orchids.

For apartment dwellers the cactus family offers untold chances for most wonderful effects in miniature gardens. For the space occupied by one large fern you can have a half-dozen cacti—each one a different shape and each with an individuality that will really hold your attention. And they will withstand all sorts of accidents that would prove fatal to any other plants. You can even drop them and let them fall out of their pots and replace them and they will live happily on.

The cacti most suitable for window culture may be divided into three classes, tall, dwarf and vine-like. The best one of the first class is Indian fig, the second one is prickly pear. This is, perhaps, a bit more difficult to handle than the Indian fig. The most popular variety among the dwarf growers is the Bishop's cap. The outline of this plant is about a flattened globe. The plant is about five inches in diameter and bears a yellow blossom.

A Battery Hint

BY cell batteries will last longer and give better service if properly treated. For instance, they should always be kept in an upright position. Place your B and C batteries so the cells, inside the casing, are vertical. Even the common dry cells attached to the doorbell will give much longer service if placed upright, instead of on their sides as is so often done.

Picnic Hints

If you are using a coffee pot or a pan directly over the fire, rub the sides and bottom thickly with soap; then you have no trouble in removing the spot.

Should any of the picnicers receive an insect bite, quickly apply dampened salt and bind it tightly over the spot—your handkerchief will do for this purpose.

CA DISH CA DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

The sharp decline in the price of meat is welcome, of course, but how much more it would have meant to us as several correspondents have pointed out, if it had happened in the winter or spring!

During the summer the importance of meat in the diet decreases, until in some homes it almost reaches the vanishing point. In others one afternoon a week is given over to roasting a chicken or a ham, and beef, veal or lamb, to provide cold cuts for the rest of the week. With one or two hot vegetables, a crisp salad and a fruit dessert this makes an ideal dinner for summer nights.

However, cold cuts, no matter how varied the assortment, are apt to grow monotonous, unless one varies them frequently by introducing something new and different. For this "something new and different" try this ham and veal moussé, attractively molded and garnished with cucumber, caps, stuffed olives and pickled walnuts. It can be served plain or with a relish such as chili sauce, prepared mustard or horse radish. Cold chicken can be substituted for veal if desired.

HAM AND VEAL MOUSSE

- 1 cup minced, cooked ham
- 1 cup veal, cooked and cut in cubes
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- Dash of paprika
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 1 cup thin mayonnaise

Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolve over hot water. Mix with mayonnaise, which has been well thinned with cream, and add to meat, celery and seasonings which have been well mixed. Put in mold and chill for two hours.

Serve garnished with cucumber cups filled with Indian relish. To make cucumber cups, cut thick slices crosswise from a large cucumber and hollow them out with a spoon. Raw or cooked carrots, cut in star shape, and put in the mold before adding the meat-gelatin mixture, make the dish attractive.

illustrations on interior decoration that I have cut them out and pasted them in my book, which I labeled "Home Decoration." I would be most grateful to you and the family would appreciate it as well if you would give the colors and the proper arrangement for my living room. I would like to make curtains and overcurtains during the summer, so as to have everything ready by fall. The three windows are together, and shall I treat them as one window? I only get the sun for four hours in the afternoon, due to the apartment house across the way.

I am making a wall hanging of printed linen in Early American scene and am outlining the figures in wool. The large open doorway is so bare. Could you suggest something? I am handy and can paint, sew and even do simple carpenter work. I would enjoy seeing some books in the room.

(MRS.) C. H.

ALTHOUGH Mrs. H. has a very different problem, in the last analysis it involves the same question of selecting curtains that will strengthen the character of the room.

Considering the ivory wall, taupe rug and three taupe chairs, we are in desperate need of color and pattern, and the draperies give us an opportunity to use it in a way that emphasizes the character of the furnishings. Following up the colonial

CO. BUDGET DISCUSSED AT MEET

Directors and chairmen of the various committees of the Contra Costa division of California Taxpayers' association met last night at Hotel Travelers Martinez. E. I. de Laveaga, chairman, presided.

The meeting, it is understood was primarily for the purpose of every official getting together with one another at this particular time on matters pertaining to the forthcoming county budget, which is now in the course of preparation.

Confirmation of the rumors that the Tax association was ready to make recommendations on several important matters that are pending in the county, was not forthcoming last night. Secretary J. B. McFarland did agree to give his personal opinion that it looked, from indications at present, that taxes would be held within bounds for this coming fiscal year. Beyond that McFarland would not commit himself.

Thomas M. Carlson of Richmond appeared before the Tax association officials to urge that they give due consideration to the request that will be made by the Bay Barrier association that a 2 cent tax levy be inserted in the 1930-31 budget to help finance the work of the barrier. This levy, if adopted, would amount to approximately $20,000.

A committee from the Tax association is to be immediately appointed to confer with the Bay Barrier officials on the matter.

The following officials of the Tax association attended the meeting:

E. I. de Laveaga, E. M. Downer, E. B. Bull, E. G. Nash, J. D. Keith, F. W. Vieth, Armand Stow, R. J. Martyr, George K. Anderson, A. V. McFaul, C. E. Schink, W. W. Scott, O. K. Smith, Fred S. Newton, F. S. Newsom, J. B. McFarland and R. H. Bergen.

GANGSTER TO SERVE 1 YEAR

CHICAGO, July 3.—UP—"Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, known far and wide as the official executioner for "Scarface Al" Capone, was sentenced to a year in jail today while the rejuvenated police department continued unabated its war on the underworld.

The dapper McGurn also was fined $300 by Judge E. I. Frankfurter for carrying concealed weapons.

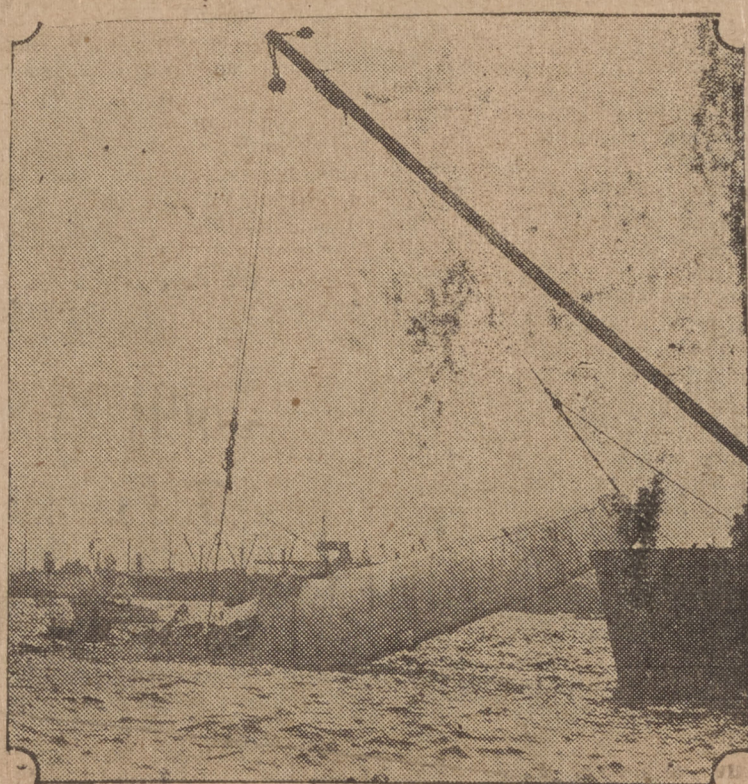

McGurn wilted when he learned that he would have to follow in the footsteps of his chieftain, Capone, who recently served a year's sentence in a Philadelphia prison on the same charges. Capone, overlord of all Chicago's alcohol, beer, vice and gambling rackets, was reputed to have retained McGurn on his payroll because of the latter's undisputed ability with a sub-machine gun.

Recent murder of Alfred Lingie, Chicago Tribune newspaper reporter, which stirred the police department into almost unprecedented activity, remained unsolved. But the many threads of arrests and investigations gradually were tying down the George "Bugs" Moran gang as the actual group which engineered the slaying.

One member, Frank Foster, was under arrest and indictment in California where he was identified as purchaser of the sub-machine gun which killed Lingie.

The automobile is a great moral force; it has completely stopped horse-stealing.

VETERANS BILL PASSED BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, July 3.—UP—The Seventy-first congress adjourned its regular session tonight at 10:30 p. m.

The closing hours were marked by legislative victories for Hoover and defeat for predictions from anti-administration members as to the effect of the new Republican tariff.

Members raced for midnight trains to take off on their campaign work after putting the final legislative touches on the World War disabled veterans bill, the District of Columbia appropriation bill, and the second deficiency bill which President Hoover signed immediately.

The rivers and harbors bill will be signed tomorrow.

On behalf of President Hoover, it was said tonight he probably would issue a call tomorrow for a special session of the senate to meet Monday to consider the London naval treaty.

The closing hours were witnessed by forceful administrative action clearing up a legislative tangle which held up two appropriation bills, failure of which would have crippled the government, severely stopping among other things the Wickersham crime commission and the starting of work on Boulder dam.

The Veterans' bill was the subject of a bitter fight to the end with the weary senate holding out for a higher scale than the president would accept but finally yielding to the more moderate house provisions.

Senator Norris of Nebraska held the floor in the closing hour, speaking to a crowded gallery, nominally on the District of Columbia appropriation bill but actually predicting dire results from the Republican tariff, which was the major work of this congress.

President Hoover reached the capitol on an announced visit just before adjournment, as Norris in the senate chamber adjoining the president's room was denouncing the "White House lash" which had been laid upon the backs of congressmen, he said, to bring them into line for the more moderate administrative World War pension bill.

Felon Almost Escapes Prison In Mattress

OSSINING, N. Y., July 3.—UP—A novel method of attempting escape from Sing Sing prison was uncovered today when guards found Jack Levy within a mattress made in the prison factory.

Levy, small and middle-aged robber, almost got away with it. He would now be on his way to freedom but for the curiosity of Victor Brown, keeper-chauffeur, who thought a pile of mattresses on his truck looked suspiciously lopsided although it had been twice inspected by other guards.

Brown summoned Principal Keeper Sheehy and a search was instituted. Sheehy ripped open one misshapen mattress and discovered Levy. Levy had a razor with which to cut his way out and a hammer. Levy was sewed into the mattress from the outside. His accomplice has not been found.

TOO MANY INTERESTS

MANCHESTER, England, July 3.—UP—John Ashton, 47, some of the time a butcher, and at other times a professional backer of horses, was sent to prison for four months for "unlawfully contributing to his insolvency by gambling."

MAIL MEN TO BE GUESTS OF CITY

Final plans have been completed for the 28th annual convention of Rural Mail Carriers, which will be held in Richmond today and tomorrow, when between 100 and 200 carriers from all California will be present.

Sessions will be held in Memorial hall. The program will open at 10 a. m., when delegates will be guests of the city at the municipal natatorium. The first assembly will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock. At 1:30, the actual business session will start with roll call and reports of the officers. Further reports will also be heard by national delegates.

Tonight, a theater party will be held at the Fox California theater, when the delegates will be guests of the management.

Election and installation of officers will be held tomorrow and the city for the 1931 convention decided. A banquet will be held at the Hotel Carquinez tomorrow night, with the Richmond Chamber of Commerce as hosts.

The meetings of the association and the auxiliary will coincide, the auxiliary to hold a card party and a tour of the shopping district.

Arrangements for the convalesce have been made by Charles Badcock, local mail carrier and a member of the state association, and a committee of Chamber of Commerce men that include G. E. Milnes, J. G. Galvin, J. A. McVittie, James N. Long and John A. Miller.

CARE URGED ON AUTOISTS

Every driver of a motor vehicle is asked to exercise the utmost caution during July 4 and 5.

On account of the wonderful weather we are enjoying traffic will be extremely heavy over the holidays. Superintendent Biscailuz has ordered all his men on duty—the roads will be patrolled day and night in an effort to minimize traffic accidents and deaths.

A careful study of our accident reports indicates that a great number of accidents occurring on holidays are due to the fact that many motorists travel over unfamiliar roads. Do your part by complying with the following safety rules:

1. Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies.
2. Be sure that your brakes are in good working order and that your lights are in proper adjustment.
3. Keep to the right, and comply with road signs.
4. Signal for stops and turns. Watch the car ahead.
5. Do not pass cars on hills or curves. Slow down at all crossings.
6. It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously. Consider the rights and privileges of others.
7. When you drive, remember the other times when you are a pedestrian.
8. Comply with the law. It was passed for your protection.

NEW CHARGES IN MURDER INQUIRY

REDWOOD CITY, July 3.—UP—Although the state has dismissed charges against Mrs. Minnie Roderick, widow of Frank Roderick, La Honda rancher found slain at the bottom of a well last week, assistant district attorneys Richard O. Bell and Edmund Scott indicated today that the woman may be subjected to further questioning.

Mrs. Roderick spent the night at the jail at her own request in order to be protected against the mysterious person who sent her a "death threat," although authorities were inclined to dismiss the message as the work of a crank.

Officials interrogated both the widow and William Woodring, whom she accused of the crime, today, and stated that they found discrepancies in both their stories and that they may take both to the ranch which was the scene of the murder, in an effort to learn the truth.

The woman accuses Woodring of being the sole slayer, and he in turn in a new statement, given authorities yesterday, insinuates that the woman was the killer.

"I heard a shot and then I found Roderick's body," Woodring said. "His wife was the only other person on the ranch."

Woodring's arraignment on a murder charge was postponed until Monday, when it will be held before Justice of the Peace Edward McAuliffe. Ernest L. Hillebrand, at first arrested as a suspect, will probably be released, the district attorney's office intimated.

Meanwhile Constable Jack Grill of Menlo Park, and other officers, continued their investigations into alleged cattle rustling activities of the dead rancher, with a view toward finding more evidence which may throw some light on the slaying.
